Q. 1. You are to use the queue ADT to simulate the behavior of a network router. Assuming that the queue is implemented by using an array and a “control” node (as is done by Weiss and discussed in class), write down the C code for the `CreateQueue(...)` function. Give the necessary definitions and declarations for the data structures used in your code.